

ZIBNSRIT
(Slovenia)

Zibnsrit (ZEE-ben-shrit) belongs to a family of dances using "sevens" and "threes" that is found throughout Europe (Norway, Finland, Germany, etc.). The name "Zibnsrit" is derived from the German "Siebenschritt" (seven steps). Variants of the dance as described here are found under numerous other names throughout Slovenia ("Sedmorka", etc.) and northwest Croatia (e.g., "Išla žena u gosti"), as well as in Slovenian colonies in the U.S. and Canada. Like most of the truly popular living Slovenian dances, it is a localized version of a late-19th century couple dance "imported" from Central Europe. Dick Crum learned it from Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kurnick in San Francisco in 1958. He has taught it at many institutes, one of the latest being the Statewide Institute at Santa Maria in May, 1975.

Formerly, dancers and musicians would compose nonsense songs that marked the "seven and three" rhythm of Zibnsrit. For example:

Pes pa nema repa več
kdo mu ga j'odsekau preč?
Ka j pa bo, ka j pa bo,
ce mu zrastu več ne bo!

The dog no longer has a tail,
who could have cut it off?
What will happen, what will happen,
he won't grow another one!
