Costumes of France

By Audrey Fifield

In that part of France, directly south of England, is found some of her most interesting costumes. Brittany, especially, seems to have a local variation of the basic dress in each village, and while the dresses seem to be much the same, the lace or embroidered eyelet muslin collars and caps will differ greatly.

Don't think you can pinpoint a costume on the map by its headgear, as it changes as each new generation adds embellishments. Also, there are over one thousand different recognized village caps!

Figure #1 is a man in the traditional costume of Plougastel. His hat is black fur-felt, with a very wide black ribbon around the crown. His jacket and cummerbund are medium blue, with light blue trimming at the neckline of both coat and vest, as are the buttonholes. The buttons in this case are white pearl. Vest and pants are black. His pants are cut straight-legged; that is, not tapered top or bottom, and are curved upward at the side waist. The resulting fullness is laid into the waistband in "Hollywood pleats".

He is wearing a black tie under a very narrow, turndown collar. Most men's shirtcollars in other areas are wider than this and very soft. Some have rounded tabs rather than pointed. The most favored neckline throughout France is merely a neckband, as in Figure #3, with the shirt gathered to it.

While most men's clothing are blue, black or buff, color is no problem, as very fancy embroidered fuchsia coats over green vests, with royal blue sashes, or green coats, blue vests and red sashes cause no comment on any important fête day. Pants of menswear striped worsted are also worn.

Figures #2 and #3 are also from Plougastel. Children dress just like their elders, except for the square fitted cap and kerchiefs which are worn throughout childhood.

The headdresses of French women are more likely to indicate religion than marital status. For instance, the familiar huge black taffeta bows worn in Alsace mean the wearer is a Protestant. Catholic girls wear red or plaid bows, and just as big.

One peculiarity of this dress (Figures 2 and 3) is that the sleeves do not match the waists, and the laced bodice is often of a lighter color than the rest of the outfit. Notice also the "peplum" length of the bodice which hangs below the apron strings. The wide bands of ribbon or embroidery on the skirt bottoms are often lighter in color than the skirts. Most French aprons have a small triangular bib, which is pinned to the bodice or over the shawl, if one is worn.

French embroidery is of a very open tracery type, or row upon row of border stitches in various colors. The effect is very thick and heavy, appearing almost like rows of cording and is used at neck edges and sleeve bottoms, as well as at skirt hems.

The man (Fig. #4) is all in dark blue with bands of red and white embroidery on his coat and vest. This suit may also be in natural white wool, or buff, with a light blue vest, or in any combination of lights and darks. Long trousers are also worn, or the very wide, knee length, accordion pleated Gallia Braccata which so amazed Caesar. The men in Brittany often wear a smock, differing only from those worn in Normandy (see figure #8) in the neck opening, which is down the center front to the waist. It laces closed at the bottom and has one button at the neckband. However, they never seem to be closed in front. This man's hat is quite distinctive, as it is natural straw, bound with black velvet, and with a red ribbon around the crown, and falling down the back.

The woman's costume from this area (Fig. #5) of Carcarneau, is red in the areas painted black. Her apron is a warp printed silk, with red roses on a white ground, and bands of printed and plain ribbons at the hem and waistband and on the skirt. Her dainty white blouse may also have a small floral print, while her heavy silk bodice is also printed or embroidered in the same colors but smaller pattern than the apron. Her red sleeves are part of the under vest which shows at the chest and shoulders. It matches the bodice.

A very attractive feature of the costumes of this area is the touch of embroidery appearing at the ankles of the stockings of both men and women.

Figure #6 is a Breton sailor, who is wearing the usual dress of this area, a huge black tam o'shanter pulled forward to shade his eyes, and a red denim sailor suit. A group of sailors in these red suits of various degrees of fading are as gay and colorful as a flock of cardinals with the occasional blue denim suit among them, which only serves to punctuate the effect. Square throated canvas espadrilles, any color, or even plaid wool house slippers, are worn ashore.

The women of the sea coast towns wear mostly black and their lace caps tend to be smaller than other areas, (see Figure #8) due, no doubt, to the ocean winds. "Kerchiefs are of print or plain, plaid or bordered, but are not edged. Note the controlled folds at the nape. Aprons are not bibbed and are of any color or material, printed or plain.

Over the years skirts have shortened and only old women wear them to the ankles. Young women wear them calf length unless they own an historical heirloom dress.

The Norman farmer (Figure #8) is wearing a blue smock and blue and white plaid pants. Drawing #10 shows the cut of the smock and the placing of the black and white braid. His shiny black cloth cap has a cord wrapped hat band and a leather bill. His printed ascot scarf is maroon and looks exactly like a man's dress scarf.

Figure #9 is a Norman woman, and her costume is easily described. Her cap is fine lace and her 'kerchief is printed in any pattern from polkadot to paisley. Her blouse may be a small print or white overblouse with long or elbow length sleeves, plain or ruffled. A striped skirt of one to two inch stripes, and a hem border of braid or ribbon of several rows, is most typical, though most anything can be worn. Sometimes the stripe is used for the whole dress, which has long tight sleeves.

Aprons tend to be dark to contrast with the gay colors of the dress, or for practical reasons. Silks are worn on holidays with a bunch of ribbon streamers caught to the small bib where it is pinned over the neckerchief. No bodice is worn.

Drawing #11 is a sketch of a Breton woman's coat and bodice of worsted material, with velvet and beaded trim. All of the caps are of lace or eyelet muslin and are, of course, hand made by their wearers.

The National Costume as Mirror of History

By Liesl Barnett

From the cradle to the grave what people wear becomes a mirror of their history, their lives and activities. Folk costumes as we know them are of comparatively recent origin. Until the late 15th or early 16th century distinctions were mainly a matter of climate and personal wealth.

At the close of the 15th century feelings of nationalism began to emerge on the European continent and with them came a gradual emergence of national traits, visual as well as in other ways. One of the last manifestations of national differences came about in the field of human attire. While it is true that the people of the colder climatic zones dressed differently than those who lived in the milder areas of the continent there was little, if any, distinction in the styles. The earliest changes came in the colors. At first the peasants wore grays and browns, supposedly symbolic of the soil from which they derived their livelihood. For special occasions country people wore blue and red was reserved for weddings. Gold and silver cloth, and purple, were the colors of royalty. Yellows, greens and the many "in-between" shades were worn by anyone of wealth who could afford to obtain them. Black was worn by old people (anyone over 45 years was considered old!!) and white was worn at funerals and for burial clothes.

With the passage of time the clothes, indicative of certain trades, became folk costumes. Thus the city of Nurnberg in the German province of Saxony had many bakers and leather workers, textile workers and bee keepers. Each of these occupations was well marked by special attire, worn by no other occupational group. Over the ensuing several centuries these former guild uniforms have become the folk costumes of the Nurnberg region.

The national costumes as we now know them have come into actual wide use in Europe during the early 1700's. The transition from the clothes of the Middle Ages to the trade and guild uniforms to the folk costumes was thus slow and gradual. Most of them can trace their origin to as recent a date as the early and middle 19th century.

The alpine regions are noted for the many strange hats with high crowns and huge, often pleated brims; they were the result of the many Spaniards who traveled to central Europe for the various royal marriages, crossing the Alps as they did so.

Military forays of one nation against another, such as those during the reigns of Louis XIV, etc., also gave birth to folk dress; sometimes it was the only way the people could express their thoughts and feelings without fear of reprisal. The coming of Protestantism also had an effect on folk dress; anything ornate was considered to be "Popish" by the severe-minded Calvinists, while to the Roman Catholic anything not covered with ornate stitchery in a riot of colors and threads of gold and/or silver immediately meant that the wearer was either a Jew or a "Protestant Anti-Christ".

The long-suffering, oppressed people also gave vent to their anti-aristocratic feelings by aping the dress of the financially more fortunate upper classes. But there always was a definite and sometimes quite subtle difference in such clothes; the bridal crowns were definitely at first a conscious burlesquing of the crowns worn by aristocrats when attending functions at courts. But, while the shape of such bridal crowns might have been identical to those worn by a duchess, they were made of flowers, ribbons, beads and tiny mirrors, etc., rather than of gems and precious metals.

Some of the beautiful costumes which now are the delight of students of Ethnology and of folk dancers began to make their appearance roughly during the waning days of the Reformation and with the advent of the so-called 30-Years' War and the German "Bauernkrieg" (or Peasants' War). The often startling similarity of costumes of seemingly unrelated people can be traced directly to the migrations occasioned by these wars.

Thus we find the wearing of plaids and scarves draped across shoulders in many countries --- this is not the exclusive style of the Scots. In northern Norway a costume is worn which has its almost exact counterpart in one region of southern Yugoslavia, and in a section which was before World War I part of the Austrian province of Carinthia and is now part of Yugoslav Croatia, a costume is worn which seems to have just been brought there from Blekinge in Sweden. From Sweden it did come, but during the wars King Gustav Adolf Vasa fought over most of the European continent.

This article could go on and on - ad infinitum - for the examples are almost endless. In some cases embroidery patterns which were claimed to be "authentic something-or-other" can be found in virtually every country, not only in Europe, but Asia, Africa and both the American continents as well. As stated before, the samples are almost endless and a whole book could be compiled concerning this particular subject. Since, however, both time and space limitations forbid this at the moment, it is hoped that interested folk dancers will further pursue the subject via trips to public libraries, etc.

Stockton Camp to Celebrate 20th Anniversary

Lawton Harris, Camp Director since its inception in 1948, reports big plans for the 20th Anniversary of the Folk Dance Camp at Stockton, July 23 through August 5, 1967.

In keeping with its policy of offering a variety of sessions (four) each dancing period of the day, Stockton employs the largest teaching staff of any Folk Dance Camp in the world. However, each period is repeated again during the week. There is no regimentation - you have four choices each hour.

Three new faces will appear on the faculty this year--Señora Flores De Angeles, the specialist sought out in Mexico by serious students of Mexican Dance; Walter Kogler, publisher of Tanz Records comes from Stuttgart, Germany; and a young San Franciscan of Greek ancestry, John Pappas, after a trip to Greece will receive his baptism of teaching in big time with a repertoire of Greek Dances.

C. Stewart Smith, after the 1966 summer of adjudicating and research with the Royal Scottish Dance Society, will return with a new series of Scottish Dances. Andor Czompo will be back with the results of his recent trip behind the Iron Curtain to his native Hungary.

Glenn Bannerman, one of America's fine young recreation dance specialists, returns after several years absence with Appalachian Running Sets, and Party Enrichments. Glenn will also teach Social Recreation at Pacific, June 19 to July 22.

Many old favorites of Camp will return -- Madelynne Greene, Anatol Joukowsky, Dennis Boxell, and Vyts Beliajus. Jerry Helt, Jack McKay and Vera Holleuffer will again call and teach American Square Dancing.

Two fully stocked folk supply houses will open Camp Shops, specialty parties; including two big dinner dances; four air conditioned wooden floored dance halls are conveniently located.

Plans are on top to recognize the several people who will be attending Camp for their 20th consecutive year and also the runner-ups.

During the two weeks of Folk Dance Camp these leaders will combine with other specialists to present a workshop for elementary school folk dance teachers. Up to three units of University credit may be earned.

For additional information write Lawton Harris, Folk Dance Camp, University of the Pacific, Stockton, California 95204.

Dear Friends:

While the rest of the nation has to wait another year for elections, ours are rapidly approaching. Accompanying this momentous occasion is the Federation's annual celebration culminating our fiscal year.

So, get smart! Sign up for the greatest, most festive party of this or any other year!

STATEWIDE '67's FESTIVAL

"INTERNATIONAL DANCE HORIZONS"

In recent years we have enjoyed participating in these festivals, at San Jose (twice) hosted by the Federation, North, and at San Diego and Santa Monica, hosted by the Federation, South.

This year Federation, South, has the honor of hosting State-wide's '67 Festival in Long Beach, California, beginning Friday evening, May 26, and continuing through Saturday and Sunday, May 27 and 28.

On behalf of the Federation, South, I extend a most cordial invitation to folk dancers everywhere. From north and south, east to west - come to Long Beach for the very best . . . Folk Dancing, that is!

We hope to see all of you there, new friends and old, from near and far. We've planned a week-end to really wear out your dancing shoes! There'll be no institute, just dancing. No Saturday night "Exhibition Show", just dancing. And Sunday afternoon - you've guessed it . . . more dancing!

For additional entertainment, we've included selected exhibitions to be shown at various intervals during each dance session. Be sure to attend the Sunday Morning Brunch for the installation of new Federation officers, both North and South.

And be on hand (and foot? feet?) again Sunday afternoon for the colorful Costume Parade, a highlight of Sunday's dance session.

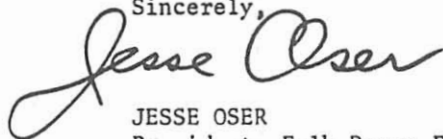

Pre-Registration Blanks are now available. Send yours in now! Your tickets, badges and complete kit will be ready and waiting for you upon arrival. No long waiting in line if you pre-register. ACT NOW!

So, dear club members and friends . . . . we've prepared a grand time for all. DON'T MISS IT 'CAUSE WE'LL MISS YOU!

See you at LONG BEACH for STATEWIDE '67's

INTERNATIONAL DANCE HORIZONS

Sincerely,

JESSE OSER
President, Folk Dance Federation of California, South, Inc.

MENDOCINO FOLK LORE CAMP 1967

The month of June brings the first of the summer Folk Dance Camps to the West Coast as Madelynne Greene and her staff prepare for another exciting week of folk lore in all its many forms. For the dancer there is the opportunity to literally dance around the clock if he so desires, but there are many other aspects of this particular camp which make it delightfully unusual. For example, in one typical day you may find yourself listening to a lecture on bonsai tree culture, or studying labanotation, or spending an hour in the Concert Hall with the great composers.....all this in addition to a full dance schedule!

Picture rustic cabins placed in a redwood setting with a stream running nearby. An outdoor amphitheatre for campfire singing - a cozy indoor lounge complete with fireplace - a dining hall that changes countries and seasons each day - a large recreation hall in the center of everything where you learn by day and dance by night. Add the sounds of birds and frogs, hambos and jotás, Beethoven and Brahms -- the smells of clean air, burning logs and fresh bread -- the taste of curry and sage, of English roast beef and Mexican chocolate -- the touch of soft grass underfoot and green leaves overhead. Add all of these together and you will have a rough approximation of the experience that awaits you at Mendocino. Have you ever dined on barbecued lamb near the grotto of the Oracle at Delphi? (We have). Have you ever seen a real Polish wedding? (We have). Have you ever visited an Indonesian joss house, pungent with the smell of burning incense? (We have). For that matter, have you ever been to an Irish Wake, a Jewish Seder, and an English Music Hall, or gone on a good old American Hayride? (We have done all these things).

This year's camp promises to be even more fascinating than the others. On succeeding nights you will visit a gypsy cave in Spain, Denmark's Tivoli Gardens, Carnival in Rio, the Eisteddfod in Wales, a Greek taverna, the lost civilizations of Mexico, Poland on St. John's Eve. How do we do it? We're not giving away our secret, but somehow each night manages to outdo the previous one. This year's faculty features two sparkling personalities new to California: Nelda Drury and Jan Sejda. Nelda's specialty is Mexico; Jan, formerly with "Mazowsze", will show us the dances of his native Poland. In addition, Maureen Hall returns with more dances of the Old Sod. Dorothy Kvalnes will be on hand with her fascinating course in music and rhythms. Stewart Smith and Gordon Engler will be back with new Scottish and Balkan dances. And Madelynne, herself, will have a whole array of European material.

One more thing. Henry Lash - - our magnificent chef - deserves a paragraph to himself. No one else can create an Indonesian rijstafel, a Swedish smorgasbord, or whatever the day requires and do it with so little apparent effort and yet so much colorful appeal to eye and taste.

So whether you prefer to dance around the clock, to commune with nature or just relax and do as you wish, come to Mendocino June 16th to 25th. You will find it a richly rewarding experience!

Blossom Festival

April 16, 1967 - At the KEZAR "BARN"

The San Francisco Council of Folk Dance Groups welcomes you once again to our "Barn".

The floor has lost none of its "springiness" since last year.

The decorations are gay and bright - you will think you are transported to someone's garden.

This year we'll dance both afternoon and evening, with a kolo hour between.

What is your pleasure? General dancing? Squares? Kolos? Exhibitions? We have them all!

So . . . . . come dance with us!

LE QUADRILLE DES LANCIERS

(France)

18 Le Quadrille Des Lanciers (Leh Kah-DREE(L) deh LAHN-see-ay) was first introduced around 1850. At that time it was known as "Quadrille Anglais" (English Quadrille) in order to avoid confusion with "Quadrille Francais" that was codified twenty years before. Probably due to the last melody, the dance was soon, by popular agreement, "renamed". Many versions exist. Claude Flagel, who did intensive research on this dance, found eight different versions, the oldest being a century old and the latest issued before World War I. The dance described here is the one that Louise and Germain Hébert saw performed by a group from Chateauroux, during a Folk Dance Camp at Pont-Chretien, France, in 1964. Louise and Germain introduced this dance at the University of the Pacific Folk Dance Camp in 1966.

MUSIC: Record: Uni-Disc Ex-45-190M
Piano: "Trait e de Danse" Lussan-Borel-Allin Michel.
Paris, 1936. P. 129-133.

FORMATION: Four cpls in square formation, Cpl 1 with back to music.
When hands are joined, they are held at shoulder height.

STEPS AND STYLING: All figures are done with walking steps (except for a few occasions). Keep in mind that this is a "danse de salon" with its games of curtsy and affability executed with smiles, little bows and glances.

Sashay*, two step*, polka*

MORE THE MERRIER FOLK DANCERS

Monday, February 13, was an exciting day for the MORE THE MERRIER FOLK DANCERS. Their leaders, NORMA and HANS ZANDER appeared on the Bill Burrud Television Show. Norma did the narration on a Bavarian travelogue. They were interviewed and also did a Bavarian dance.

The exhibition group is very much in demand, lately, doing exhibitions practically every Saturday and Sunday. (Turn to the picture on page 33). On April 7 they will be dancing in the German Operetta, "Saison in Sa;zburg" at the Wilshire Ebell Theater.

The MORE THE MERRIER FOLK DANCERS meet every Monday from 8 to 10:30 p.m. at Rogers Park Recreation Center, with exhibition practice every first, second and fourth Thursday of the month. Their party night is every third Saturday of the month. Just as if Hans and Norma did not have enough to do, they have started a Beginners Group to meet every Friday from 8 to 10 p.m.

BALKAN DANCE NEWS

Balkan dancing around town!!

RUBI VUCETA'S KOLO KLASS and Workshop, at 1122 North Cole, in Hollywood, 8 to 10, Monday nights -- mostly teaching. Rubi has the knack!! BALKAN CO-OP, now meeting at Bancroft Jr. High, Las Palmas and Willoughby, Hollywood, 8:30 to 11, first three Saturdays of the month. It's a good group!!!!

At the coffee houses, if you like dancing in limited areas:

Tuesdays: Cafe Danssa, 11533 West Pico Blvd., Los Angeles

8:30 - Rubi Vuceta teaching.

The Intersection, 630 N. Alvarado, Los Angeles.

8:00 - Zoran Vasilijevich teaching.

Thursdays: The Museum, 19 West Dayton St., Pasadena

8:00 Dave Shochat teaching.

Zorbas the Greek, 17746 Saticoy St., Reseda

8:00 p.m. - Zoran Vasilijevich teaching.

Delicious food at Balkan House, 3413 W. Olive, Burbank, and watch the Serbians do Morovac -- it may be quite an eye-opener. Sveta Maric plays his marvelous music on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights.

Is anybody interested in a workshop in Balkan dancing? There are plans afoot to meet once a month for about 2 or 3 hours to work on dances to perfect steps and styling. This is not for fun but for perfectionists. Call me at PO 3-5740, or send me a postal card giving your name, address and phone number, and you will be contacted when plans are definite.

WHAT'S DOING AT SILVERADO AND LONG BEACH CO-OP

LORABETH ALLEN and ROGER VIAN, who met in AL VINCENT's Beginners' class (sponsored by Silverado and Long Beach Co-op) a year ago, were married February 5 and honeymooned in Hawaii.

MARGIE TAPIA is contemplating another trip to Europe. Hope your plans do come through!

RUTH and MARTY GRAEBER will be leaving from New York April 14, to return sometime in August. They will visit Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland and Holland. In Germany they will pick up a Volkswagon Camper and will go to Spain, France, Portugal, Italy, Yugoslavia, Greece, Austria and possibly Turkey and Bulgaria. Naturally, they are busy preparing for their trip.

INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTE OF LOS ANGELES

The Swiss Community will present the next in the series of Nationality Festivals -- Champion Swiss Yodelers, exciting folk dancers, craft exhibits, food delicacies, and film travelogues. The date: April 23, from 2 to 6 p.m., at the International Institute, 435 S. Boyle Avenue, Los Angeles 90033.

WESTWOOD'S BIG DEAL AT THE CALAMIGOS STAR C RANCH!!!

April 7, 8, 9. $18.00 for members - $19.00, otherwise. Contact: Gerry Gordon, 279-1428; Ed Feldman, VE 9-6719; or Al Beckerman, 672-5477.

THIS AND THAT

ANITA WINTHEISER is sure her doctor didn't use the right stitches when he operated on her last month; she'll show him some fancy stitches. Feels like he sewed her up too tight. Really, though, she is getting along very well.

ELSIE DUNIN and her family are off to Yugoslavia for about a year. MARIA REISCH is teaching a Beginners' Class at Culver City Memorial Auditorium, Culver Blvd., and Overland Ave., Fridays, 8 to 10:30 p.m., presented by the Culver City Department of Recreation co-sponsored by the Folk Dance Federation of California South.

COME ONE, COME ALL!!!! A Beginners' Class, Tuesdays, Silver Lake Recreation Center, 1850 Silverlake Drive, taught by RALPH MILLER. For further information contact BARBARA ARNOLD, Silver Lake Recreation Center Director, at NO 6-9505.

SAN DIEGO

San Diego area dancers turned out for an exciting evening of Hungarian dances with Andor Czompo during his recent visit to California. There are many dancers who are unable to go to summer conferences, and it was a real treat for them to experience first hand teaching from Andor and enjoy his films of Hungarian dance.

San Diego mourns the death of Mrs. Mary (May) Sykes, mother of Maude Sykes, on February 12, 1967. She loved folk dancing and attended most folk dance events. She was a faithful member of the San Diego Folk Dancers and an Associate Member of the Federation.

FRESNOTES

We are all envious of JACK and CECI WISOTZKE and EARL and VI BRAWLEY of SQUARE ROUNDERS, who traileed into Mexico for a vacation. LENNIE and LORRAINE PARKER accompanied them to the end of California and, with their toes on the border, waved goodbye as the caravan disappeared into the Mexican landscape. KATIE BRAWLEY who now lives and dances in Sacramento, accompanied her parents on this vacation. Has anyone a spare burro? The basket the travelers brought back to VERA JONES is so big that she needs to put wheels on it and carry a burro to pull it.

VIRGINIA and CALVIN FOX are the new appointees to the Federation's Research Committee. After attending their first meeting they are in a slight state of shock at learning how much time, work, and study goes into every dance description printed by our Federation.

SQUARE ROUNDERS have welcomed three new members recently: BASIL JENKINS, teacher at Emerson School, and SIGNE and BOB HICKEY. Signe teaches a class of pre-schoolers, and if you need any insurance, Bob will be glad to talk to you.

The McTAGGART DANCERS (Fresno Division) made their debut by dancing at the Desert Inn for the International Institute Luncheon. These kids, who just began dancing 2-1/2 months ago, are coming along fast and their datebook is beginning to get crowded. They are a credit to MAUREEN HALL, who makes the long trip from Firebaugh to Fresno to teach them. Visitors are welcome any Thursday from 6:00 to 7:15 p.m. at Romain Playground.

A few bouquets are in order for some of the Thursday night City College dancers; To JUDY KAZMIER, a Brownie leader, who became so interested while her girls were learning folk dancing that she learned the dances thoroughly, bought the records, and is now teaching them to another Brownie troop as well as to a Girl Scout troop; to JUDY VAN DE WATER of the Y.W.C.A., who is starting a "coffee house" type of thing with folk dancing for teen-agers. Judy also gives her time to teaching folk dancing to a group of 60 girls at Fort Miller Junior High School during their lunch hour; to ELLIE BLUESTEIN who has begun teaching rhythms and art to pre-school children at Fresno Art Center. Ellie's husband, a professor at Fresno State, is a well-known folk singer and was on the music staff at Idyllwild in 1966; to JANET MOORE who presented such a good German party to the F.S.C faculty that they've asked for another. She had a great time teaching the At The Inn and a couple of polkas. The next party will be Russian, with MILLIE STEINHAUER, a former scholarship winner, HOWARD SHARNBERG, and TOM BOZIGIAN, assisting; KATHY LASKY, a former scholarship winner, has been teaching some on Thursday nights, starting with Roumanian Medley and Resavka, no less!

COUNCIL CLIPS (continued)

We welcome a newcomer to our area: ABRAHAM ARECKAL, now attending Fresno State, who was born in India and learned to folk dance when he was at Oregon State.

Your reporter wishes to especially thank VERA JONES for sending in so many interesting news items.

Lucille Adkins, 1617 N. Delno, Fresno

MARIN COUNCIL

Now that we've shown the way, via rules on etiquette and personal daintiness to assured popularity, we understand the Council of Presidents is publishing a treatise on same.

KOPACHKAS hosted a "happening" at Wobbly Rock Inn, Muir Beach that was too much. Movies of dancing in Russia and Yugoslavia, CRIS PRATT on guitar, leading songs, pot luck supper and folk dancing, natch. Those LINSKOTT's are a shot in the arm.

March brought another new beginners' class with our Council president making his debut as a dance teacher! Assistant is CLARA KUHNE, and this group meets on Thursday nights at the Presbyterian Church in San Rafael. The ANGELI's Friday night class has become the Intermediates, and they continue to meet at the Methodist Church.

Scallopini is the second Wednesday night in April (12th) and you reserve your spot but fast, as this is a very popular evening. The Step-Togethers changed from corned beef and cabbage to a more successful chicken feed. Don't forget, this club now meets at Almonte Hall, Mill Valley, on the 4th Saturday, twelve times a year.

The Scholarship Committee has been screening applicants, and we wouldn't be surprised if someone whose initials are J.R. becomes our first adult guest at folk dance camp. Each member club of the Council made a substantial contribution to subsidize this venture. We'll let you know, soon, how close the guess is.

Some people have other people to dinner, to show privately, their regard and/or esteem for certain other people. The El Cerrito Ethnic Epicureans, five beautiful couples, rented a cabin in the hills of Berkeley, and they did set a good table. Understatement of the month! Then they provided a balmy evening, an all request program, lots of cold punch, and made us feel as though we were the special ones! Where else but in folk dancing would you meet that kind of hospitality?

Don't forget, April 8, at Park School, Mill Valley, for the President's Ball; 7:15 Balkan Hour. The LINSKOTTS, RASELLAS, D'ALVYS, SWEGERS and TILDENS are going to give you a happy, happy, happy evening.

Ad hoc, esculate, involvement -- currently "in" words -- and so foreign to our little old recreation. And how often, to how many people, is a night of dancing a panacea to personal troubles. Better write thirty - we're getting DEEP!

PENINSULA COUNCIL OF FOLK DANCE GROUPS

BARBARA BURKE DONLEAVY has a group called the POLKATEERS.... They are first graders - through high school age. They have exhibited at many Peninsula club parties and at CHANGS in San Francisco. She also works with Campfire girls. The popular dances among the Campfire girls this past year were Scandinavian, and this year they will be taught Mexican dances.

For information about this group, which meets in San Bruno, contact Barbara Burke Donleavy, 2451 Eucalyptus Way, San Bruno, 94066.

SHIRLEY EASTMAN and MARCEL VINOKUR of MENLO PARK RECREATION DEPARTMENT are sponsoring a Serbian Macedonian Dance Institute early in April to be taught by Zoran Vasiljerich of Los Angeles. This group was founded by Marcel in April of 1957 under Palo Alto Recreation Department sponsorship. They switched to Menlo Park Recreation Department in 1962, and have been with that Department ever since. Although the group at the beginning was International in recent years it has become Balkan and Israeli. The group is comprised of young people, many single, including some Stanford students. Membership is open. They meet Wednesdays from 7:45 to 10:15 p.m. at Menlo Park Civic Center on Alma Street, in Menlo Park.

IN MEMORIAM. The BARRONADERS lost a good friend last month. ROY VERNON passed away after a short illness. He was custodian at the Barron Park School. He was always ready to help us in all our affairs and will be missed by all the Barronaders.

SACRAMENTO COUNCIL OF FOLK DANCE GROUPS

Among the first pointers a folk dance instructor emphasizes, or for that matter any other dance instructor, is posture. They will say, "Stand as tall as possible, carry yourself firmly but with an easy grace and, whatever else, look as though you are having a good time."

Ask anyone in the Sacramento area which three persons they would say embodies these features, and we'd venture that places one and two would easily go to KELLIS GRIGSBY. Just to watch him dancing makes you feel you could do it too and you have the courage to try. Those fortunate enough to have had him teach the fundamentals are just lucky. This becomes more and more evident as his proteges go on to intermediate or advanced dancing. To have held the admiration of those who see him often he has had to adhere strictly to good basic rules. One of the most active clubs in the area, TRIPLE S, has eagerly held onto his guidance and instruction approaching twenty years. In them he has instilled a keen sense of responsibility toward Council and Federation activities.

He promotes the idea that each dancer owes to the overall movement of folk dancing for pleasure and perfection. It requires a good bit of sincere application. In all these endeavors he has been extremely well blest with a staunch supporter, his gracious wife, ZENAIDE. She is very alert to good public relations, social graces and portrays a generous sense of humor. To see this couple at Party Nite gatherings or festivals spells a bit more pleasure for all. The GRIGSBYS are keenly interested in you personally and quick to give encouragement. It is with justified pride that they watch many couples, as well as whole families, continue to enjoy this healthy pastime. Rarely is it possible to make real progress in folk dancing unless both husband and wife support each other -- in this they give us a good example.

Kellis has the unique quality of making the newest beginner feel that progress is being made, never appearing too busy to help and encourage. Many people admire the Grigsbys from afar, but today we voice to them a hearty "Thank you!" May we be blessed having them around for many years.

GREATER EAST BAY FOLK DANCE COUNCIL

Palms and torsos gracefully swaying in the Trade Winds will cast the magic spell of Polynesia over the Fifth Saturday party to be held by the GREATER EAST BAY FOLK DANCE COUNCIL in Laurel School, Oakland, Saturday evening, April 29. The OXFORD FAMILY of Sacramento will call squares, according to DOLLY SCHIWAL who is in charge of arrangements. The Polynesian theme will be carried out by the costumes and decorations, exhibitions and refreshments for the evening.

The stars of the GREATER EAST BAY Midwinter Festival in February were the costumed folk dancing figures created by HILDA SACHS for the cover of LET'S DANCE. Through the artistic wizardry of ANN GILLIES and the efforts of the OAKLAND FOLK DANCERS, decoration committee, headed by JUANITA YOUNG, the little Let's Dancers were magnified to more than life-size for their first appearance, we are sure, on any stage. Their line of dance through outer space swept past the takeoff of the surprisingly realistic sheet-iron rocket that JACK MARTIN, of Hayward, generously presented to the festival committee.

DOLLY SEAL SCHIWAL is bragging about a new grand-daughter, Lana Kathleen Silveira, born March 2, to Linda (Seale) and Tom Silveira - weight 6 pounds, 12-1/4 ounces. Linda was well known in the old PANTALETTE exhibition group. Dolly tells us she is expecting another grandchild by her son, Bob, and his wife, in July. Her son, Bill, has a seven month old boy.

RON BUENO, Federation Scholarship Chairman, and his wife, ELIZABETH, also of the old PANTALETTE group, have a son going on three months, in San Jose. They live there, too.

Folk dancers revived romantic memories of the Austria of Franz Josef, when the Viennese Waltz group of Oakland's INTERNATIONAL DANCE ARTS, taught by MILLIE and VERN von KONSKY, opened the Children's Hospital Benefit black tie ball that followed the symphony concert, under the direction of Arthur Fiedler in the "Glass Cage" at the new Oakland Coliseum arena, on February 23.
